

The Original Miami Beach Antique Show once again hosts the Jewelry History Series

To be held at the Miami Beach Convention Center, January 28-29

(MIAMI) - U.S. Antique Shows recently announced that they will be hosting the Second Annual Jewelry History Series prior to the start of The Original Miami Beach Antique Show on Jan. 30. The jewelry conference, January 28-29, will consist of educational sessions from notable jewelry speakers as well as a complementary tour of Bass Museum of Art, an art museum located in Miami Beach.

"After an amazingly successful first year, we're thrilled to once again offer this educational opportunity to jewelry collectors, buyers and enthusiasts," says Dan Darby, Emerald Expositions vice president and U.S. Antique Shows general manager. "From the feedback provided last year, we'll be looking at new and creative ways for series attendees to network more with each other and the most elite dealers we have on the show floor."

This event is open to retailers, wholesalers, appraisers, new collectors, old collectors or anyone with an interest in learning about the history of antique jewelry.

Here's a list of speakers scheduled for the Jewelry History Series:

January 28

Elyse Zorn Karlin, Arts & Crafts, Art Nouveau & Edwardian Jewelry: Diverse Style in Early 20th Century

Barbara Schwartz, Costume Jewelry in the 1920s & 1930s: The Evolution of the Art Deco Style

Yvonne Markowitz, The Jewels of Trabert & Hoeffler-Mauboussin

Gail Brett Levine, Shopping in the Aisles of History of Designs

January 29

Panel Discussion: A Curator, Historian, Dealer and Appraiser - Four Views on Jewelry (Panel Members: Elyse Zorn Karlin; Yvonne Markowitz; Suzanne Martinez and Gail Brett Levine)

Laura Mathews, Chasing Gustav Manz: A Jewelry Adventure

Gloria Lieberman, Designer Jewelry Drives the Market

Eric J. Hoffman, Jade: the Precious Stone of Heaven

Along with a variety of sessions featuring dealers, graduate gemologists and jewelry historians, series attendees will be among the first to see The Original Miami Beach Antique Show before it opens with a tour of select jewelry exhibitor booths on Thursday, January 29. This tour will allow attendees a preview of the magnificent pieces available for purchase. In addition, Original Miami Beach Antique Show dealer Lenore Dailey will be hosting a closing networking session for all attendees to conclude the two-day event.
